Topic: Secure Document Processing

Secure document processing means handling files in a way that protects confidentiality, integrity and availability. A scanner app should validate file types, limit file sizes, avoid exposing private files publicly and delete temporary files after expiry.

Key Terms

- OCR: Optical character recognition that converts images of text into editable text.
- Redaction: Permanent removal of sensitive information from a document.
- Signed URL: A temporary link that allows access for a limited time.
- Retention: The policy for how long temporary files are kept.

Comparison Table

Tool	Input	Expected Output
OCR	Scanned PDF	Searchable text
Summarize	Long report	Key points and actions
Smart Notes	Messy notes	Formatted markdown/PDF
Share Link	PDF file	Temporary secure URL

Practice Questions

1. What is the purpose of OCR?
2. Why should temporary links expire?
3. Name two pieces of sensitive information that may need redaction.
